NOTE: A Contracting State may be a member of a regional economic integration organisation that has signed, accepted, or approved, or acceded to, the Convention (pursuant to Article 48 of the Convention) and the Protocol (pursuant to Article XXVII of the Protocol), and the internal arrangements of that organisation may affect the capacity of the Contracting State to make a declaration in relation to a particular article (for example, the European Union (EU)). In certain cases, however, they may amend their national law to reflect the terms of the underlying provision which was the subject of the declaration. See, in particular, the introduction to Part III of this Annex.
